

City Advisory Boards and Committees

There are numerous advisory boards and committees, which assist the City Commission by providing recommendations on various policy issues. The City makes appointments to more than twenty advisory boards and committees. The Mayor, with the advice and consent of the City Commission, makes all appointments. Volunteer board and committee members provide a valuable service to the community by dedicating hundreds of hours each year.

On June 3, 1997, the City Commission passed a policy resolution outlining the standard procedures for the appointment and orientation of persons on the advisory boards, to establish attendance requirements and to implement a process for the Governing body to review advisory board by-laws.
